Letter to Editor,

How to apply for PhD in most of the foreign Universities after completing your masters from India? Is it just like how you design your wardrobes in your own house?

As a MBBS student, I always keep myself updated about the current educations. I always scroll through different social networking sites like LinkedIn, twitter, YouTube and I have realized that finding the PhD supervisor is just like how we design our clothes inside our wardrobes or how we a librarian keep the books in the library. Its hectic work but it increases the chance of acceptability just you got the right dress in the right time quickly from your designed wardrobes.

What is the most common way to organize your wardrobes? First take out all your dresses. Then short out your dresses which you want to keep and which you want to donate. After that, wash your cloths and then seat for the final designing the wardrobes. There are many ways you can design. Summer clothes, winter cloths Or House Clothes, Professional Cloths, Party Clothes or Colour wise like all red clothes, all blue clothes. You can design it according to your convenience. Then place the clothes in the wardrobes. You put all your daily clothes in upper rack, rarely used clothes in lower rack. And yes, you have to change this design according to your convenience. And networking is very important. Like if you put your suits in the corner, you have to put your ties there. So, let's do the naming now. Your all clothes are Research Data base like PhDportal.eu . Now the basis of which you are making the short out is your subject interest, you master's thesis and your previous lab experiences. You have to make a list of all supervisors whom you are going to apply. For this you have to go though their profile and research works, papers, current projects etc. So, this the clothes which will be enter in the wardrobes. Now the main thing how to put the clothes in the right way in the wardrobes. So, make a excel sheet. Write headings Gross topics. Then who are the supervisors are working on that topics. Like, I am interested in CAR T cell therapy in Oncology, Cancer Vaccines and Stem cell Therapy in Oncology. So, these are the top heading. Then I will list all the supervisors who are working on CART cell therapy in Oncology like that. After that I will make letter of motivations. By this writing Letter of Motivations is easy. Because who are working on CART cell, their main frame of the letter will be same, certain number of changes is needed. Same is applicable for other categories too. So, through this I can send the emails to maximum number of supervisors in a least amount of time. Also don't forget to make a good CV, CV in one paper and letter of recommendation. So, its just like the proper arrangements, its increase the acceptability in the less amount of time. Just like your designed organized wardrobes or an organized library. The rest of the time one can use in preparation of IELTS/TOEFL or GRE.

Applying for PhD:

1. Electing the field and the type of your studies is the second phase, is the first influence you might have on your studies, being called to require one amongst individual and structural doctoral programmes for your doctoral studies. This is a compulsory stair in advance for your application for the university admission. (1)
2. Prior to candidacy, you must pass certain courses and qualifying examinations that usually consist of both written and oral components (IELTS/TOEFL). (2)
3. Network well! Attend as many conferences as you can and try to strike meaningful conversations with potential supervisors. All the schools I applied to accepted my application probably because I had strong research proposals which I came up with after discussing with the respective supervisors. (3)
4. Email to the Professors, don't send same letter of motivations to everyone. Modify as mentioned before in the paper.

5. And wait for the interview and acceptance.

Apology, if I am wrong anywhere. I haven't applied anywhere but I have listened to many students who have successfully applied. After listening their journey, I made a clear image on How to apply. And then I correlate it with designing a wardrobe or organizing a library. Proper method, smart method can help many students, my friends to get their PhD soon. Best Wishes to everyone!
